PORTO RICAN EDUCATION

Prominent Islanders Hold a Conference in This City.

The English Institutions Pronounced a Failure Because of the Incom-Books Without Spanish References. ing and Secretary Allison Effort to Establish School Gardens,

Ramon Latimer y Fernandez, Delegate of the Porto Rico Republican party to the United States, conferred last night with George T. Finlay, also a member of the Porto Rican Commission, at the Arlington Hotel in regard to a measure for introducing school gardens into the island, and modifying the present system of English

The Porto Rican Tariff bill lately passed by the House provides that the $2,500,000 already collected in customs shall be expended for schools and public works in the island. This sum is at present in the hands of Gen, George W. Davis, Military Governor of Porto Rico, awaiting disposal for the purposes specified by the bill, if it ecomes a law. A letter from General Davis in answer to a proposal for modifying and improving the present school system and for introucing school gardens was read last night. Portions of this letter are as follows:

Your proposal to teach the people of this sland something of the dignity of labor s a much more practicable suggestion than that put forth by Mr. Buell. Up till 1898 the efforts of the sovereign power see and to have been centred in the direc-tion of educating a few to compose the governing class. In the past, not over 22, 000 youths were taught anything, where-as there are in Porto Rico of school age nost 300,000 children.

'The Spanish educational system seem: o have justified the theory that when a person's mental endowments were culti-cated, there was no reason why he should work. Education then meant immunity from manual toil, and the well taught lad, taken to some other arena than the field for his career, and failing to find remunertive case was unhappy and restless. He ative case, was unnappy and restless. He was willing to become a clerk, or to accept any sedentary employment that would permit him to live in some comfort with idleness and gentility—anything, indeed, that would spare him from the drudgery of manual labor.

"That a cultivation of this instinct or inclination will take a long time to enalicate.

nation will take a long time to eradicate is patent. Men and women are not easily unmade. The reform will be slow; and, unless Americans succeed better than they have in New Mexico and among the ne-

Anglo-Saxon and the Teutonic races are unlike these Porto Ricans who are proud of their ancestry. The mixture of the blood of the Gauls, the Basques, the Romans, and the Moors, with a tinge of the African, has produced a race which, after a thousand years of arbitrary govern-ment, does not live and move and have its being in the same way that the Teutons o-nor is this strange. The influence of ur association with them will be slowly elt, and the road of the educator will be ong and difficult.

"I am afraid to make a prediction as to the success you would attain in establish-ing school gardens in Porto Rico. If you wrought only to the end that the pupils would graduate with sedentary positions, rmitting much leisure and little work am sure you would find throngs of pupils. f, however, the ultimate result involved he following of the plow or other heavy work, I fear the success would be less cyl-

"The industrial future of Porto Rice dends on agriculture, and the laborers must nsist of those who will endure the most evere toil. They cannot hope to receive nore than 30 cents a day for cane and offee culture. It is not easy to see how a ather can now support and educate a famon 30 cents a day, but trop'cal sugar coffee are nowhere grown under con-tion permitting a better wage.

"I hope to establish model farms and reperiment stations, so as to improve agri-ultural methods. I have to begin at the ottom, however, for there is no fc inda-on to build upon."

Fernandez said today that the Eng-Mr. Fernandez said today that the English schools now being established in Porto Rico are complete failures. "While the system and text-books," said he, "are far superior to those we had under Spanish rule, the latter are written and expounded in English without the proper and necessary explanation in Spanish and with absolutely no benefit to the students. We are pained and shocked at the inconsiderate and inadequate methods in vogue in the schools which are as unjust to the teachers as to the students.
"Young lady teachers from the United States are sent into the interior of the tates are sent into the interior of the ountry with everything foreign and trange about them, and then left to their wn devices without help or assistance of any kind.

"The school garden is admirably adapted to the interests of the people of Porto Rico, and, upon my return I will submit the very compete reports issued by the Bureau of Education upon the resuts of school gardens in Europe to the proper authorities. I shall do all in my power to further this most beautiful and useful system of education among the people of system of education among the people of Porto Rico."

Two years ago my little three-year-old boy had the whooping-cough, and after several physicians had prescribed for him without giving him relief, I prevailed on my wife to try a twenty-five cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Neither the lock on the door to the bank or the time lock on the vault had been tampered with. Weir left the bank at 3:30 o'clock Saturday to go to Eldon for Sunday and left President S. D. Lightfoot and F. D. Carr, a director, in charge. A shipment of currency had been made that day but there still remained a large sum. The officials closed the bank an hour later, setting the time lock for thirty-six hours or until five o'clock Monday morning. When they left the bank the money was intact. No suspicion rests on the cashier.

Intense excitement was created by the news of the robbery and the bank was soon thronged by anxious depositors. The official are reticent about the sum taken, and deny that it was $17,000, as currently reported. "I am not opposed to amusements, but I am in favor of spiritualizing our . When we want amusement let us not be afraid to go where it is to be found, pure and simple. When you want to see a play, go to the theatre, but do not turn to some sickly imitation of the dramatic art by amateur actors, who do it in the name of religion. If young people will dance, it is their own business, and good exercise in the bargain, but keep it out of the church parlors, where it is bad form, to say the least. So, too, if you will, play cards at home, in the bosom of your family, sufrounded by your boys and girls. Should they play by stealth, the secreey would be worse than the game. There is little enough religion left in the world without diluting that which remains with the leavings from the world's champagne coolers." to see a play, go to the theatre, but do
